2022 UCI Cyclo-cross Training Camp

Dear Reader,

Please be informed that the UCI will offer a four-day Cyclo-cross Training Camp for developing Cyclo-cross nations at the UCI World Cycling Centre in Aigle, Switzerland.

The camp will be held from Tuesday 26th to Friday 29th July 2022 and is open to 16–22-year-old athletes of National Federations affiliated to the UCI (arrival in Aigle on Monday 25 July in the evening).

After the cancellation of the 2020 and 2021 camps because of the COVID travel restrictions, the 2022 camp ninth edition will again focus on the physical, technical, mental, and organizational aspects of competitive Cyclo-cross and continue to serve as excellent preparation for future competitions.

Specifically:

- High level coaching from Cyclo-cross coaches and athletes Edward COLLINS (GBR) and Eva LECHNER (ITA)
- Use of the terrain and facilities at the UCI World Cycling Centre campus (including the Cyclo-cross course used for several past World Cups) as well as the roads in the mountains surrounding Aigle;
- Full-board and accommodation at the Mon Séjour dormitory facility, with breakfast, lunch and dinner at the UCI World Cycling Centre;
- Transportation to/from camp, as well as health/accident insurance and visas are the responsibility of each Federation and/or the individual rider;
- Riders must provide their own bikes, related equipment, and shoes/helmet. A packing list will be included in the Welcome Packet to be sent out once selections are made.

In the history of the UCI Cyclo-cross training camp, the level of progression and success of participants has been remarkable. As Ben Turner (GBR, bronze medal in the Men Junior 2017 UCI Cyclo-cross World Championships and brilliant recently during the Road Spring Classics) or Marie Schreiber (LUX, 6th at the Women Under 23 2022 Walmart UCI Cyclo-cross World Championships), numerous UCI Cyclo-cross Training Camp participants have gone on to race UCI World Cups and UCI World Championships and many attribute their success, in part, to the opportunity provided by the UCI WCC training camp.

With a limited number of places, we highly encourage you to put forward your suggested candidates for evaluation by the deadline of 20 June 2022, using the e-mail address formation@uci.ch. Final logistical details will be given in return to the application. For any further question of information, do not hesitate to write to the contact indicated above.

We look forward to hearing from you and thank you in advance.

Yours sincerely,

Peter Van den Abeele
